INVESTMENT PRINCIPLES

Fusion Optima portfolios aim to systematically harvest risk premiums while minimizing the costs of the investments by utilising ETFs with high liquidity and low charges. These are carefully selected from a wide range of well-established product providers, targeting outperformance of their respected benchmarks.

The range is based on systematic Strategic Asset Allocation, aiming to maximise expected long-term return within well-defined risk parameters. Medium-term market forecasts are overlaid to adjust the allocation by incorporating current market trends.

RISK SCORE

MARKET COMMENTS

The first quarter of 2025 finished with a negative month for overall portfolio performance, as global equities declined 6.7% and bonds also delivered a negative return of 1.8% (GBP terms). Global stock markets came under pressure in March amid growing concerns about the economic impact of President Trump's tariff policy. Following the imposition of new tariffs on US imports from Mexico, Canada and China in February, the US administration announced new tariffs on steel, aluminium and autos, while shifting expectations around the severity of pending tariff announcements due on 2 April drove swings in market sentiment with the prospect of a global trade war looming. US equity markets reacted negatively (-8.2%) as trade tensions and weakening consumer sentiment reignited fears of a US downturn. The Fed cut its growth forecast, warning that Trump's tariffs were driving up prices as long-term inflation expectations reached a 32-year high.

The more confrontational approach from the new US administration has had a galvanising impact on European policymakers, with large defence and infrastructure spending packages announced. Despite falling 2.5% in March, European equities have significantly outperformed their US peers over the first quarter (EU +7.5%, US -7.15%). Emerging market equities outperformed their developed counterparts over the month (-1.8%), with Indian equities (+6.5%) rebounding on the back of growth and rising domestic demand. Commodities provided some diversification benefits for investors, with the broad index rising 1%, as once again gold shone as a top performer (+7%).
