Fusion Optima portfolios aim to systematically harvest risk premiums while minimizing the costs of the investments by utilising ETFs with high liquidity and low charges. These are carefully selected from a wide range of well-established product providers, targeting outperformance of their respected benchmarks.

The range is based on systematic Strategic Asset Allocation, aiming to maximise expected long-term return within well-defined risk parameters. Medium-term market forecasts are overlaid to adjust the allocation by incorporating current market trends.

MARKET COMMENTS

February provided positive returns for portfolios, as global equities (+2.8%) climbed to a fresh record high. Market leadership broadened as investors continued to rotate away from mega-cap US technology, as enthusiasm is giving way to a more disciplined reassessment of valuations and the sustainability of returns. The market punished AI hyperscalers for announcing yet more seemingly unjustified capital expenditure and the large size of these companies proved a headwind for US equities (+1.1%), which lagged global markets. Investors gravitated toward 'heavy-asset, low-obsolescence companies', and sectors such as materials, energy and utilities outperformed - particularly those that stand to benefit from the ongoing AI buildout, such as manufacturers in Asia (+7.8%) and raw material exporters in Latin America (+5.8%).

Japanese markets (+10.8%) reacted positively to the election victory for Prime Minister Takaichi, who delivered the first two-thirds supermajority since WW2 and investors factored in the increased likelihood of further fiscal stimulus. UK equities (+7%) also performed strongly, driven by their favourable sector mix that benefitted from both the AI rotation and concerns about rising oil prices. Global bonds (+3.2%) benefitted as investors looked to high quality assets amid the growing AI and geopolitical concerns while signs of cooling inflation pressures were well received. Finally, geopolitical angst took hold as tensions between the US and Iran escalated into armed conflict, though hostilities started after markets had closed for the month. We continue to monitor the situation vigilantly and remained poised to adjust portfolios accordingly.
