INVESTMENT PRINCIPLES

Fusion Optima portfolios aim to systematically harvest risk premiums while minimizing the costs of the investments by utilising ETFs with high liquidity and low charges. These are carefully selected from a wide range of well-established product providers, targeting outperformance of their respected benchmarks.

The range is based on systematic Strategic Asset Allocation, aiming to maximise expected long-term return within well-defined risk parameters. Medium-term market forecasts are overlaid to adjust the allocation by incorporating current market trends.

RISK SCORE

MARKET COMMENTS

June was a relatively uneventful month for portfolio performance overall, as global equities rose 0.9% and global bonds returned 0.8% (GBP terms). A preliminary peace agreement between the US and Iran signed mid-month created hope for the re-opening of the Strait of Hormuz. The market response was rather anti-climactic – rather than stoking a risk-on rally, an unwinding of geopolitical trades ensued. Commodities (-8.2%) suffered as oil (-21.3%) plummeted on normalizing supply expectations and gold sold (-10.6%) as its safe-haven premium collapsed.

European equities (+3.4%) were month’s top performing equity region. As a continent heavily dependent on energy imports, Europe was acutely exposed to the disruption caused by the conflict, and equity markets moved swiftly to price in what normalisation could mean for growth and corporate margins. In the UK, political uncertainty failed to unsettle markets. Keir Starmer announced his resignation as Prime Minister, paving the way for Andy Burnham to take over at No. 10. UK equities were largely unfazed (+1.7%), while the pound and government borrowing costs steadied. Emerging Market Equities fell slightly (-1.0%), as performance diverged across regions. China was a notable laggard (-6.3%), as continuing property sector stress and weakening economic data weighed on investor sentiment. Conversely, Indian equities (+4.4%), which have underperformed for some time, retraced earlier losses due to increased foreign inflows on stabilising currency, supportive policy and normalising energy risks. The period was broadly constructive for bonds, with many major fixed income sectors delivering modest, income-driven positive returns.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. The value of any investment and the income from it is not guaranteed and can fall as well as rise, so that you may not realise the amount originally invested. The performance figures, portfolio components and the corresponding fund fees vary slightly between different investment platforms, depending on the availability of funds. The portfolio components and all the figures presented in this factsheet are based on the portfolio available on the Abrdn platform. Where an investment is denominated in a currency other than sterling, changes in exchange rates between currencies may cause investment values or income to rise or fall. The portfolios may invest in funds or other financial products which have limited liquidity, or which individually have a relatively high-risk profile and/or be unregulated by the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA).
